"Sedona Movie" goes

Sedona was well represented when producers Tommy Stovall and Marc Sterling recently premiered their new film, "Sedona," at the prestigious Hollywood Film Festival. Tommy, who also wrote and directed the inspiring story about self-discovery, invited his behind-the-scenes crew to document the exciting weekend. Actor Trevor Sterling Stovall, actor and videographer Jule Johnson, photographers Mal Cooper and Tom Johnson, as well as special assistant Jon Bottarini, accompanied Tommy and Marc to Los Angeles for the exciting weekend.

Highlights of the festival included a sold-out screening of the movie at ArcLight Hollywood Cinema followed by a reception to honor producers, members of the cast and sponsors of the movie. Managers, agents, industry critics, fans and the paparazzi, of course, were present as Tommy announced the launch of a new mobile app to promote the film.

After a day of touring Los Angeles, the Sedona crew attended the 15th Annual Hollywood Awards Gala held at The Beverly Hilton Hotel. Presented by Starz, this red-carpet event recognizes excellence in the art of filmmaking, and while at the hotel, the Sedona locals mingled among a host of celebrities that included George Clooney, Lea Thompson, Rosie Huntington-Whiteley, Cicely Tyson and Viola Davis.

"Sedona," which critics have called, "a rarity in today's movie world," will be released in theatres March 16, 2012. More information about the movie, including the trailer, can be found at sedonamovie.com.
